5. Facilitate interns on planning targeted preventive measures based on the caries risk of the individual.

3.About the event

Department of Public Health Dentistry held an intern clinical ascendancy programme on "CARIES RISK ASSESSMENT TOOLS" as part of "ORAL DISEASES RISK ASSESSMENT FOR PREVENTION AND EARLY INTERVENTION" which are

Dr. Devi Charan Shetty

currently the upcoming modern methods of detecting and reducing caries prevalence. Knowledge and awareness of the preventive components of oral and dental health are typically not put into practice, resulting in a high prevalence of dental disease, particularly caries, in the community. Dental caries is the most common dental condition that has a negative impact on oral health. If health care professionals can identify caries risk factors in their early stages, they can help prevent cavitations. To improve the interns clinical abilities in the field, the Department of Public Health Dentistry at I.T.S Dental College in Ghaziabad offered a two-day module on clinical ascendancy and enhancement on Oral Diseases Risk Assessment for Prevention and Early Intervention. The students were taught in detail about all of the assessment tools, as well as a proper hands-on with patients

ON DAY 1:

Students were taught in depth about the CARIOGRAM which is a new concept which is used as an educational model aiming at illustrating the multifactorial background of dental caries. The students were trained to use the cariogram software and to do caries risk assessment on patients using CARIOGRAM software. Students were also trained about saliva collection and colony counts using the Research Laboratory in the ITS Dental College Campus. Every student of the module was given a different patient to use the Cariogram for better learning and individualized treatment plan of each patient was discussed with the students.

ON DAY 2:

On the next session, students were introduced and trained in usage of CAMBRA (CARIES MANAGEMENT BY RISK ASSESSMENT). The students were trained in managing caries before caries reaches the stage of cavitation, thoroughly being discussed another tool. Each student was individually discussed about the tool, and hands-on practice was also done in the OPD section by giving each student one patient.

4. Attendees

A total of 21 students participated in the program

5. Outcome

The First Module of the Interns Clinical Ascendancy and Enhancement Program was highly successful in achieving its objectives. The attendees gained valuable insights into the Caries Risk Assessment and its application in clinical practice and research purpose. The faculty members

Dr. Devi Charan Shetty
Director-Principal
ITS Centre for Dental Studies & Research
Jethi-Mansuri Road, Muradnagar
Ghaziabad - 201306

played a pivotal role in the success of the event. They participated enthusiastically demonstrating a wealth of knowledge and expertise in the field of Oral Disease Risk Assessment.

6. Conclusion

The First Module of the Interns Clinical Ascendancy and Enhancement Program focused on the Caries Risk Assessment Tools. It provided a platform for interns to further enhance their knowledge and skills in prevention of dental caries. The program successfully introduced interns the Cariogram and CAMBRA as a risk assessment tool for dental caries, illustrate the interaction of caries related factors and chance to avoid caries, express caries risk graphically, recommend targeted preventive actions and the application of the same in clinical practice and educational programs
